

Handwritten text, possibly a signature or name, written in a cursive script. The text is faint and appears to be written in ink on aged paper. The word "KING" is clearly visible in the center, with other characters above and below it that are difficult to decipher due to fading and bleed-through.