A

The Elevation of the North Front of the Exchange.

Of the publick Edifices in Bristol, the EXCHANGE, now building at the Charge of the Corporation of the City, may be look'd upon as the principal. The Place for the Merchants to meet in, is surrounded with Corinthian Portico's, and was calculated to receive 1440 Men, allowing 5 square feet of Ground for each Man to stand upon. The whole Structure extends 148 feet in Length, from North to South, and is 110 feet in Breadth, from East to West. The Walls, both Outside and Inside, are all faced with white Free-Stone, as in the most Rich, Beautiful, and Elegant Manner; of the North Front, marked with the Letter A, and that of the South Front, marked with the Letter B, are a Specimen. The Roof is covered partly with blue Slate, and partly with milled Lead of the same colour, a Manufacture but lately introduced into Bristol, tho approved of, recommended, and made use of, for more than 50 Years past, by the Architects and chief Builders in London, and most other Places where noble Edifices have been raised up with proper Materials, and the just Rules of Architecture observed in them.

also to the Worshipful the Master, Wardens, Assistants, & Commonalty of the Society of Merchants Adventurers in the same CITY, this PLAN is most Humbly Dedicated by Their most Obliged & most Faithful Humble Servant Benjamin Hickey.

Bristol; J. Leake Bookseller in Bath. T. Pine Engraver in Old Bond Street, and the Printsellers in London. & J. Rocque Surveyor in High Park Road.
