

Bristol, Vermont,
United States of America.

August 12, 1901

My dear Señor Galdos,

I am translating Trafalgar and also La Corte de Carlos IV. I send you Quo Vadis from the Polish of Sienkiewicz, and also Prince Perebryani from the Russian of the late Count Alexis Tolstoy, a cousin of Leo Tolstoy. I will send you also "The Knights of the Cross" by Sienkiewicz, his latest work.

These books are for you and your nephew Señor Hurtado de Mendoza.
You will be so good as to divide them between you to suit yourselves.

I bought in Madrid a complete copy, twenty-five volumes of Lafuente's History of Spain with continuation to the present by Valera, so I have the best work on Spanish history.

Please send me a paper copy of the El Grande Oriente and Los Cien mil hijos de San Luis, edition Economica.

Mrs Curtin sends you and Señor
Kurtado de Mendoza her best wishes.

I have your portrait framed and put up with portraits of Sienkiewicz of Tolstoy and Turgenieff.

With best wishes I am most sincerely
your friend,

Jeremiah Curtin.