This is a black and white photograph of a manuscript page from the Lindisfarne Gospels. The page is divided into two main sections. On the left, a group of nine figures, likely the apostles, are depicted standing in a row. They are dressed in long, flowing robes and are holding chalices. The figures are arranged in a slightly staggered manner, with some standing slightly behind others. On the right, a single figure, possibly a saint or angel, is shown standing and holding a large, flowing banner or cloak. The figure is also dressed in a long robe and has a halo around their head. The entire page is decorated with intricate, interlaced knotwork patterns, which are characteristic of the Lindisfarne Gospels. The background of the page is a light, textured surface, and the figures and patterns are rendered in dark ink.
